THE BEST, AND CHEAPEST, AND MOST UNIFORM SERIES OF STANDARD SCHOOL BOOKS

SCHOOL BOOKS

EVER FUBLISHED.

TO those engaged in the important, but ardnons task of instructing youth, Mctuffey's EcleCTIC Readlers, Nos. Ose. Two, There and Four, are now presented, theroughly revised, and I readly enlarged, with many important improvements. They are now in a permanent stereotype form, NO FURTHER ALTERATIONS being intended.

Prof. Mo Guffey's cultusiastic devotion to the cause of Education his fine taste, and discriminating mend, and his practical experience as an instructor, render him peculiarly fitted for the department of authorising, to which he has given his attention. The suggestions of intelligent teachers who had used the former editions of the series, and the valuable sid afforded him in the revision by an experienced educator, have also furnished him with unusual facilities for advantageously revising and cularging these works.

In this series, comprising as it does, a careful selection of instructive, entertaining and moral matter, progressively arranged, and graduated with reference to the capacity of the pupil. Prof. McGuffey has aforded to parents and teachers, a most thorough, complete, and ethicient auxiliary in the education of youth. Its extensive use has been sufficient for the development and put appreciation of its many excellencies. The result is, that intelligent teachers pronounce it the most complete series now before the public.

The intrinsic partial of Prof. McGuffey's Relectic Senders have gent toachers pronounce it he most complete series now before the pablic.

The intrinsic merit of Prof. McGuffey's Eelectic Readers, having gained for them an unparalleled and rapidly increasing circulation, the publisher iscenabled, manyithstanding the heavy expenditure in them revision and enlargement, to manufacture them in the neatest and most durable manner, while they are now fornished at such low prices, that they are the CHEAPEST, as well as the best selvool reading books extant.

JUST PUBLISHED,

M GPFFEY'S RHEFORICAL GITHE; or Fifth Reader, of the Eelectic Series—450 pages, Phuo; containing copious and minute rules, examples and exercises in articulation, inflection, can phasis accent, quantity, rhetorical pause, modulation, expression, reading of poetry, rhetorical follogue, resture, and their collateral subjects, to which are added a great variety of elegant reading bessons, (about one half prose and half poetry,) selected from the most classic writers; furnishing entertaining and instructive specimens of various styles of composition. This work has been prepared with very great care, and with reference to making it a useful, practical, and standard book; and the publisher confidently hopes, that the Rhetorical Guide of Mr. McGuffey is well adapted to supply the wants of classes in rhetorical reading in our Academies, High Schools and Colleges.

IN SENATE.

SATURDAY, January 10, 1846.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. HUNTER. The Clerk read the Journal of yesterday. Petitions were presented by Messrs. WALKER, BRAMLETTE and DRAFFIN.

REPORTS FROM STANDING COMMITTEES.

Mr. HARDIN, from the committee on the Judiciary, a bill to regulate the Terms of the Christian County Court : the Term now held on the last Monday in April to be held on the first Monday in May, and the Term now held on the last Monday in October to be held on the first Monday in November:

passed Mr. SLAUGHTER, from the committee on Agriculture and Manufactures, a H. R. act, allowing the Russell County Court further time of one year to procure weights and measures.

Mr. BRAMLETTE moved an amendment, granting the same to the County Court of Clinton: adopted.

The bill, as amended, then passed. Mr. TODD, from the committee on Finance, a H. R. act, to amend the act to invest the Cradduck Fund: ratifies and legalizes an investment of $2100 in six year bonds, and authorizes further investments: passed. Also, a bill for the benefit of Elijah Mc Whorter, late Sheriff of Clay: releases interest on a judgment against him.

Mr. HARRIS moved an amendment allowing W. J. Mayo $11 62, expenses of guards in conveying a lunatic to the Asylum.

Mr. HENDERSON moved to amend the amendment so as to grant said McWhorter two years further time to collect revenue and county levy; adopted. The amendment, as amended, was then adopted,

REPORTS FROM SELECT COMMITTEES.

Mr. CRENSHAW, a bill to amend the charter of the Glasgow and Scottsville Turnpike Road Company: provides that, on complaint to two Justices. it be found that the road is out of proper repair, and the Company having means, fail to requir in thirty days from notice, tolls shall not be collected at the gate nearest the place out of repair, &c.: passed.

Mr. BRAMLETTE, a bill concerning the town of Albany in Clinton county: an act of incorporation: committed to the committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. CONNER, a bill to improve the navigation of Little Sandy river: committed to the committee on Internal Improvement.

MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. DRAFFIN, leave to introduce a bill authorizing Clerks of County Courts to swear persons applying for marriage license, as to their age: referred to the committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. TAYLOR, leave to introduce a hill to amend the act regulating conveyances: referred to the committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. EVANS, leave to introduce a bill to improve the navigation of Green and Barren rivers, and for other purposes: referred to the committee on Internal Improvement

Mr. SLAUGHTER moved to take up the bill, laid on the table yesterday, for the benefit of Mary Hancock : agreed to.

A H. R. act, to divorce Mary Hancock, with the pending amendments moved in the Senate, to divorce Sarah Ann Donighi from ber husband, John Donighi; and to divorce Ann Eliza Holtzclaw and change her name to Fitzgerald.

Mr. BALLARD withdrew the amendment proposing to divorce Ann Eliza Holtzclaw.

The amendment, to divorce Sarah Ann Donighi, was then adopted.

And the question then being on reading the bill, as amended, a third time, Mr. BUTLER moved to re-commit the bill to the committee on the Judiciary, with instructions to report whether the institution of a suit by a woman for a divorce, will secure the plaintiff all property which may thereafter, pending the suit, accrue to the plaintiff by devise or descent, from the claims of the defendant or his creditors.

The SPEAKER here announced the orders of the day; when, on motion of Mr. SOU'I'll, they were dispensed with.

Mr. PEYTON moved to amend the instructions moved by Mr. BUTLER, so as to require the committee to inquire further, whether the father, who is yet living, has not the power now by law, to secure to his daughter any property he may design to give ! ber, by deed of trust, in such manner that her husband cannot have any control over it or interest in it.

Mr. W. P. BOYD moved to amend the instructions so as to require the committee also to report the right of the wife to a settlement of property descended to her, under such circumstances, and the extent of that right as to the amount of the property, before the same is reduced to possession of the hus-

Mr. BARLOW submitted, that gentlemen might be too much interested in this question to allow them even to take a vote upon it: and for this opinion, he referred the House to the 16th Rule, from which he read, as follows, to wit:

"16. No member shall vote on any question, in the event of which he is immediately or particularly interested."

But the SPEAKER entertained the motion, and the resolution was rejected.

Mr. G. said that the two committees had been requested to report at an early day; and he desired his proposition to pass merely that they might have power to act together, for the sake of economizing He asked that the rule requiring his proposition to lie on the table one day, be dispensed with: which was carried; and then the resolution was

He would not object to the reference if the committee could report to-day. But for himself he did not know what could be effected by giving it to the committee or Ways and Means. Mr. II. moved that the bill be made the special rder for Wednesday next.

Mr. HAGGARD proposed Tuesday. Mr. J. S. SMITH. There were a number of proects to come before the House in connection with these officers of Government. One was to abolish the present Judiciary System; another was to reduce their salaries; and another to reduce their number -so many, if no more. Mr. S., as he was now advised, should vote for a reduction of their number: and if extra duties were imposed, he should vote also to increase their salaries. But he felt that he was not yet sufficiently informed on the subject, and to cast his vote now, would be voting too much in the dark. He proposed, therefore, that the subject he discussed at some time two weeks hence, when the House would be prepared to do so more advisedly. While he was an advocate for a sound Judiciary, he wanted the Judges to be well worked; and he would pay the laborer according to the amount of his work. But before he acted, he desired to await the development of all the propositions to be made on the subject, and then take them in group. He wanted facts and data for action. He believed in much reflection on all measures of this kind : and before the House acted he desired to have the clearest conviction that the measure to be carried would better our condition. It was natural for a man of his age to look to the guides of experience; and for the reason, perhaps, that his binod did not rnn so rapidly as that of younger men. But whatever might be the ardor of others, whatever might be their means of knowledge, their refinements upon the past, or their zeal for change and reform.—he should prefer still to look around him, and to rest his acts on the light and lessons of the past. But he would desire the concurrence of the well prepared to vote from the first as now. > HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. THURSDAY, Janury 8, 1846.

THE CONVENTION BILL-In Continuation.

Pending the consideration of the bill to provide for taking the sense of the people as to the expediency of calling a Convention—the House being in committee of the Whole, (Mr. BARLOW in the Chair)—and the bill having been reported by the Clerk,

Mr. E. SMITH said, Ibal, having introduced the bill before the committee, it would be expected of him to remark upon its merits. But he regretted that the state of his health would not allow him to say much. Last summer, during the canvass in his county, the question un A bill to incorporate the Barren River Navigation | derwent a full discussion; and, as far as the public sentiment could be ascertained, a vast majority seemed to have ome to the conclusion that the time had arrived whe (in the language of that instrument) it was expedient to amend the Constitution. He knew and felt that a proposition to change the fundamental law of the land should received with great caution; and the action of states men thereupon should always be slow and prodent. But when experience pointed out the necessity of amend in the form of government, and where manifest defects exist, the stalesman and patriot should not hesitate to make the requisite change; nor should be he driven from his purpose by the outery of alarm against innovation. For his part, Mr. S. was not afraid to trust the Constitution again in the hands of the people who made it. Mr. S. adverted to the length of time the present Constitution had existed as evidence of its want of adapta-tion to the present condition of the State. He also referred briefly to the demand for amendment in several branches of the Slate Judiciary-embraced in the propowith a few considerations. He then referred to what he glanced at these subjects, and sat down-being unable to occell on account of indesposition.

Mr. POPE. The subject of a Convention was discussed y bis colleague [Mr. Glover] and himself before the people last summer, and some excitement in its favor was avifested amongst the people of the city of Louisville. insomuch as that, whilst a candidate, he was constrained to agree to vote for such a bill as was now before the That pledge he gave in writing; and now, upon this floor, he cheerfully made the avowal of his disposition and determination to redeem it.

Mr. ANTHONY proposed to amend by striking out the fourth section, which provides that the public printer furnish 5000 copies of this act for distribution among the

Mr. E. SMITH thought, if the act passed, it was desirable that it should be extensively read. He had copied suffragulat section from an old bill for the same object. But if own. gentlemen thought the number of copies too great, he disgusted. This trafficking for the Presidency by was willing to an endment in that respect.

Mr. HARLAN saw no necessity for incurring expenses on this account. If the bill passed, gentlemen candidates would, of course, inform the people sufficiently of its charactor and provisions from the slump.

as at present advised, he was not favorable to its passage. He, however, held himself open to conviction on the subject; and if, in the course of the discussion of the hill, his mind should be changed, he would be at liberty to act accordingly. It was expedient, at all events, that the phraseology of the bill should be as proper and correct as the House could make it; and for that purpose he would propose several amendments: Which amendments were severally read by the Clerk, and accepted by the gentleman from Rockeastle.

Mr. R. C. BOWLING had boped tout genile more experience would address the House. But, not-withstanding his youth and diffidence, he was constrained to signify his opposition to the bill. He regarded it as a blow aimed at the very foundations of our institutions. Hy was muco maritte | on the subject, and did not fear to express his sentiments in regard to it. He conceded the existence of defects in the present Constitution; but no Constitution, no law of human enactment was perfect. In the present case be feared for the consequences of the remedy were than for the evils sought to be remeved. The object was to strike at the Judiciary—and that would be to tear away the great bulwark of our rights, and to demolish the proudest monument of the wisdom of our meestors. If corruptions and mal-practices existed in this department, the means of redress were provided, &c Mr. B. continued for a few minutes speaking rapidly in a similar strain, and a lyrrting to the slavery of the State as one of the secret objects against which the measure was directed, and took his seat with the remark that he had stood up more with the object to elicit discussion than occupy the time himself.

Mr. ROOT said he was compelled to address the House a sense of the duty which he owed to his constituents. I'rohably seven-eighths of the voters in Campbell county ere in favor of amending the Constitution; and desired that an act should be now passed, referring the question to a vole of the people.

The State Constitution was established in 1793. Fiftyfour years, with all the lights and improvements which they have developed, have since passed over us, and yet we are told that it would be dangerous to our liberties to have those hallowed principles which are at the base of our institutions, now referred back again to the source of all legitimate human authority. Such fears might be given out here; but he would like to see the man that would go into his own county and tell the people to their face that it would be dangerous to refer a constitutional question to the source of all political power.

The people had a right to demand a Republican form of vernment, and he would ask gentlemen to tell the diference between some of the forms of our State government, and those of a similar character which exist monarchies of the old world. Their offices are held only for life, and ours are only for life. It was alleged that corruptions and abuses had crept into the body politic, so as to intercept the just administration of the laws. Such matters be conceived to be referable to the fact, that, in many cases under our present Constitution, when men get once fairly seated in office, they feel that they may ride on the necks of the people until they commit some flagrant act in violation of the con-ceded and established rights and usages of social life. This was a grievous butthen; and the language of complaint was heard against it throughout the Commonwealtn. And there are our County Courts-a self-created and irresponsible body-a system, like the perpetual motion, which receives propulsion from no loreign source. These Justices appoint their own successors, and if they chose to do so, they could hold on for life. And was it not an almost universal cry, that they were often sadly inefficient In many cases, as it might suit their humor or their interest, they would afterly refuse to attend to business. When a poor man would come to seek an did not suit bis humor to proceed, he would draw himself up into the folds of his official dignity, and tell him, sir, I cannot be disturbed, I have no time now to be occupied with your affairs. And so the balls of justice were frequently closed against the citizen when he rapped at his

Sir, should we still adhere to the few principles of latent king-craft vet lingering in the Constitution, for fear of danger from innovation! No sir, this very principle would have kept these States in colonial vas to this day. But for this principle to throw off and expurgate from our institutions whatever may grow up in that is manifestly wrong, our beloved land would still have supported the revenues and endured the oppres sions of the British crown; and it was upon this princi-ple that the people still held the right to say whether their form of government pleased them or not. Mr. R. would ask now for the objectors to the bill to come forward. He would ask such a representive to rise in his place and let his declaration go forth, that he would be afraid to trust this question of a convention to the hands of his constituents. Let him allow the people to know that their representative here is alraid to refer these constitutional questions to the foundation and source of all political power, (for that, at last, was the only argument that could be found against the bill) and then let him set down and calculate the chances of occupying his place again. Mr. R. would not cousume time to look at the delects of the existing Constitution, and the lax-administration of justice in the judicial department under it. But he would have instituted in this department such a thorougi reform, as that the citizen would have hardly time to dash the dust from his feet while he waited for the award, of When those who were charged with the execu tion of the laws should be made subject to the people, the government would assume a new life and energy, and purity would be the order of the day.

There were magistrates to his knowledge in so tion of the State, whose qualifications extended little be-yond the ability to read and write, who were constantly placing themselves above their neighbors for the purpos of oppression; because they knew they were constitution al officers and could not be reached; and that was really true. A Justice of the Peace could not be br ommonwealth. There was not a man in the House that had wealth enough to break one of them from his office, unless he would break his neck. [A laugh.]

His late "War Speech" has diffused undissembled disgust among many even of his own party. If he had any prospect of the Presidency before, it is now clearly defunct. The conviction, we believe, is universal that his speech was made for 1848.

The New York Express says :

Gen. Cass's war speech, instead of bolstering him up for the Presidency, as he intended, has inflicted upon his prospects a severe blow. Formerly he had many, if not political, strong personal friends in the Whig party, and undoubtedly he commanded the suffrages of many leading and thinking men of his These in both parties, he has shocked if not arts to inveigle two nations into the butchery of each other, has deeply shocked all moral and upright men. Mr. DALLAM. By whal he was about to propose, he ould not commit himself in favor of the bill. Indeed, now is, that before 1847, he will shove himself off the course by others as weak as this. Presidents now-a-days are not made in the Capitol on the Hill in Washington. Gen. Cass would have done better in Michigan, weeding his garden, and trimining his trees.

And the N. Y. Herald:

" Mr. Cass's movement is regarded as entirely selfish, and therefore, destitute of all moral and political influence. His political friends of cool judgment, and good intentions, condemn it; and it will in the end, probably torn out to be one of those political blunders, which one of the statesmen at a court where Mr. Cass should have learned a more skilful diplomacy than he has practised since his return home, declared to be worse than a crime. A crime and blunder both it has been in Mr. Cass's case, for no criminal was ever more deliberate in his intentions to crush an innocen, people, or rob an honest man of his money, than Mr. Cass was to sow the seeds of discord among, and to create a public panic out of his own selfish aspirations for the Presidency."

> From the Maysville Eagle. SHEEP AND DOGS.

Mr. Collins:-- Upon a recent visit to the country I heard very serious complaints made by the farmers, in various quarters, of the destruction of their sleep by digs. A great many of them have suffered heavy losses in this way, carticularly in the neighborhood of Mayslick. You have done right in call ag public attention to the subject. Now it ought to be brought home to them. Some effective law should be passed to arrest the evil. For it has almost come to the pass when the question must be decided, whether the raising of sheep shall be stopped or the number of dogs greatly diminish-Surely, if there is to be a sacrifice of either, it should be the dogs.

The State pays a premium for wolf-scalps, because of the ravages of that animal among the sheep. There are fifty sheep killed by dags where there is one by wolves. And yet nothing is done to prevent it. In Ohio sheep are exempted from taxarion, in order to encourage their growth. If our Legislature can do nothing else it should certamly clear out all encumbrances to their growth. Let this he done by limiting the number of dogs which each farmer may have upon his place, to a certain munber, (I think one would be enough.) and imposing a heavy tax upon all over that number. Such a law, if properly executed, would have a very considerable tendency to stop the evil, and would give general satisfaction. Some persons think this is a matter of no consequence. But if they were farmers, and for two or three nights in succession should lose some il iz in or two of their finest sheep, they would som wike up to a sense of its impor-A CIT ZEN.

NEW ENGINE OF WAR .- We find the following in the Bultimore American of the 30th We copied a paragraph from the New York Sun a day or two ago, stating that a gentleman of that city had invented a powerful engine for harbor de-fence. The New York Herald has quite an extended notice of the invention, which is said to be simply a modification of the principle of the sling, applied to machinery, in connection with a tube or gun, throwing out a discharge of thirty balls in a minute for hours together. The muchine is so constructed, that on putting in at one end the balls to be discharged, a rotary motion is produced by means of a crank, and, by a few rapid revolutions, each ball receives a force and momentum equal to that communinated by any quantity of gunpowder. When this has been done, a slide starts and allows each ball to escape in succession from the chamber into a tube. when they are thrown to almost any distance, and with unerring aim. We congratulate the press upon a triumph which has been achieved in the Court of the Correction of Errors, in the recersal, by a vote of fificen to five, of a judgment obtained by J. FENNIMORE COOPER against the late Col. W. L. STONE, for libel.

The suit was pending when Cal. Stone died; and, instead of being discontinued, as was natural to suppose, was prosecuted against his widow. We will not say that, in resisting a very earnest appeal from Col. Stone's counsel and widow that this suit m ght end with the life of the defendant, there was any want of the "common feelings of humanity," because Mr. Cooper would again sue us for a libel, and Judge Gridley would again decide that for such libels there is no justification. But we may, and will say, rejoicingly, that our highest judicial tribunal has put a quietus upon one of Mr. J. Fennimore Cooper's libel suits .- A'bany Econing Journal.

The South Carolina Famine. - With every succeeding week the necounts from South Carolina, of the extent to which the provision erops of that State have been destroyed by the droughts of last season, become more alarming. The first and immediate effects which it has produced has been the lasty emigration of those whose necessities were stronger to m the ties which bound them to their bearths. From the district of Spartanburg alone it is ascertained that upwards of two thousand per-sons have fied from the destitution which awaited them, to seek in the West some means of support. The condition of those who remain may be conceivthat the members of the Log slature are in session ed, when it is known that in the whole district not more than one-sixth of the usual provision has been mide, while in many neighborhoods there are entire fields which have produced scarcely a single ear of corn. In this calamity several of the adjoining distriets have shared, and, though perhaps not to the same extent, yet so great is the destitution that thry are unable to provide for the sufferers among themselves, much less for those in other districts.

A FATHER'S CARE FOR HIS SON .- Beautiful and ecoming in the eyes of the paternal God, is the nuwearied attachment of the parent to the child! Alas! ow little does the unthinking spirit of youth know of the extent of its devotedness. There sits the froward, fretful indolent boy. The care that keeps perpetual watch over his moral and physical safety. ne misnames unjust restriction. The foresight that enies itself many a comfort to provide for his fature wants, he denounces as sordid avarice. He arms from his father's face in coldness or in anger. Boy! boy! the cloud upon that toil-warn brow has been placed there by anxiety, not for self, but for an impatient, prevish son, whose pillow he would with roses, though thorns should incken around his own. Even at the moment when his arm is raised to infliet chastisement int by folly, thou shouldst bend and bless thy parent. > "THE BARE-FOOTED PRINTER BOY."-The Pittsourgh Marning Ariel, under this caption, gives a durt history of a distinguished citizen of Penusyl-

He came from the North and belonged to a large family, with all his wordly goods tied up in a little pocket handkerchief; he sought and obtained employment in a printing olice as an apprentice. From an apprentice to a jorneyman, from a journeyman to a reporter, then an editor, the bare-finited printer boy worked his way against obstacles which the struggling poor only know. The persevering follower in Franklin's steps began to realize the fruits of his patient toil and privation. The young aspirant became Printer to the State, and by travil minagement was sport e abled to accomplish the object nearest to his heart -the establishment of his mother in a home above want-in the possession of every comfort she could
